

you made it

we think we made it when someone else sustains it but does it matter when all it is is flatter

we think we're happy when someone else does crappy but let's debate it now have we really made it when there's still room to fall at all you made if you think you have you faded only if you didn't do, what you thought you do for you

so when you do
what you do
don't you do what you first thought to do and if what you're thinking through is what's gonna come to you won't you take the idea and eliminate all fear and think you already made it
